Traditionally, businesses focused on production efficiency—"making what's easy to produce," with the assumption that demand would follow supply. This was the era of product-centric marketing, where the main goal was to produce high-quality goods and hope customers would buy them.

However, Kotler introduced a paradigm shift: moving from a product-centric to a customer-centric approach. He emphasized understanding customer needs and wants, and tailoring offerings accordingly. - Price: How much are customers willing to pay? What is the perceived value?
- Place: Where and how is the product distributed? Is it accessible to the target market?
- Promotion: How is the message communicated? What channels are used?

Kotler's 4 Ps serve as a foundational tool for marketers to craft comprehensive strategies that align with consumer expectations and competitive dynamics.

Extensions and Modern Adaptations:

In the digital age, the 4 Ps have expanded into 7 Ps, adding People, Process, and Physical Evidence, especially relevant to service marketing. This evolution reflects Kotler's recognition of the changing marketing landscape.

3. Segmentation, Targeting, and Positioning (STP)

- Segmentation: Dividing the market into distinct groups based on demographics, psychographics, geographic, or behavioral factors.
